28 YEARS TO ACCEPT DIVORCE

When Husband Returns Wife Pays Cost and Gets Decree.

Towanda, Pa.—Feeble with the weight of years, yet determined in manner, Mrs. Hanna Harrison entered the courthouse and demanded the papers in a divorce granted her twenty-eight years ago. Prothonotary Estell spent two hours searching the records and finally found that back in the eighties Mrs. Harrison had been granted a divorce from James Harrison on the grounds of desertion. The decree was to become effective when Mrs. Harrison paid the costs of the case. The conditions were explained to the aged woman, and she said she knew all about it and was ready to pay the costs as required.

Then she explained that about the time the divorce was applied for she heard her husband was dead, and she decided that a divorce was not necessary. A few days ago he returned after an absence of over thirty years, and she decided to lift the decree. She accordingly paid the costs and was given the papers, which restores to her her maiden name.

"I put him out of my life forever when I applied for that divorce, and now I intend to keep him out," said the woman as she placed the court's decree in her hand bag and left the courthouse.

REBELS COIN MONEY.

Coins Not Pretentious and Look as if Made by Amateurs.

Juarez, Mexico.—It is not generally known that the Constitutionalist forces in Mexico have coined money in silver and copper. These coins were struck in Chihuahua and are very crudely done—in fact, are about the most amateurish pieces of money that have been produced in many years. The peso or dollar has on one side simply "El del Parial, 1913," in a wreath, and on the other side, "1 peso."

The half dollar is more pretentious. On one side is the inscription, "Pueras Constitutionalistas, 1913" (Constitutional forces), and in the center a liberty cap surrounded by rays, a copy of the older style of Mexican coins. The reverse has "50 centavos" in a wreath, a poor copy of the present coinage of Huerta. The copper piece, which is said to have been made from trolley wire melted down, is similar to the 50 centavos, but has a "2 C" in a wreath for 2 centavos.

EDISON BRAVES DOCTOR'S IRE

"Wizard" Burns Midnight Oil to Perfect Talking Movie.

West Orange, N. J.—Much against the advice of his physician and his family, Thomas A. Edison is again burning the midnight oil. It became known here that in a week Mr. Edison has spent less than six hours in his home, Glenmont, in Llewellyn Park.

Practically all day long and the better part of the night the "wizard" is on the third floor of his laboratory working on the talking movie.

"Any person who knows Mr. Edison is acquainted with the fact that he will never give up interest or work or experiment with a thing until it has become as nearly perfect as possible," said William H. Meadowcroft, his private secretary.

HOWARD A FRIEND OF GENERAL GRANT

How Admiral Was Started on Career by President.

NOW IN MEXICAN WATERS.

Comes From a Family of Fighters. His Father Killed in Civil War. Known in Navy as Excellent Disciplinarian—Is Put in Charge of Battleships Which Have "Gone Wrong."

Washington.—This story begins in Galena, Ill., in the days which immediately preceded the outbreak of the civil war. Every one knows that one of the unregarded citizens of Galena at that time was Ulysses S. Grant. He had been a captain in the United States army, but he had resigned, and he was poor.

"Bush," said Grant one day to his nearest friend, Bushrod Howard, "we'll have a war, sure. And I'm going."

Bushrod Howard had commanded a company in the Mexican war. He came of a fighting family.

"I agree with you," said he. "And I'm going too. We'll each raise a company."

"Bush," said Grant, "you can't afford to go to war. If anything happened to you who would take care of your family?"

"Ulyss," said Howard, "you can't afford to go to war either. But you're going, aren't you?"

The two men made a friendly compact. If either failed to return from the war the survivor pledged himself to watch over those left behind. Captain Howard raised his company and was killed with most of his men in a railroad accident on his way to the front. After the war Grant interested himself in Howard's two sons. One was sent to West Point. The other,

REAR ADMIRAL HOWARD.

Thomas Bushrod, received an appointment to Annapolis. When he graduated Grant sent him a sum of money.

"Buy what you will," said he. "I've been a boy at graduation time—and I know how many things you'll need."

Over the head of Howard's bed in any battleship on which his flag may fly is the sword that he bought with Grant's money. It is more a part of him than the admiral's plumed hat he has to wear occasionally, for Howard is a singularly unaffected and modest man. He is a good disciplinarian—even a stern disciplinarian—but he wins the affection of his men. In the routine of service the higher officers are continually changing ships. Whenever Howard changes an avalanche of requests floods the department from the men who have come in personal contact with the admiral and wish to follow him.

"If I granted these requests," a secretary of the navy once said to him, "you'd man your ship with stewards and cooks."

In the service they speak of Howard as a "reformer." That is because he is a sort of first aid whenever a ship or a station has "gone bad" from executive causes. Howard commanded the Tennessee when that brand new warship acted as the pathfinder for the trip around the toe of South America some years ago. When he reached San Francisco he was detached to assume command of the Ohio. That ship was then at the very bottom of her class in the navy. Mutiny, a thing unheard of in the American navy, had been hinted at in some of the highly colored reports which had been printed. The men were certainly in a state verging upon revolt. They felt that some of their officers were treating them most unfairly. There is no need to revive at this time that old scandal of the service. But officers shook their heads when they discussed conditions on board the Ohio. In a very few months after he had assumed command Howard had brought the Ohio up to the very top of her class.
